

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of verifying the usability of a photosensitive film product just prior to use by applying at least one environmental sensitive label to the photosensitive film product. The environmental sensitive label has at least one
5 cumulative time-temperature indicator and at least one thermal event indicator each providing independent indications of product performance in a predetermined environment.